Summary

I am passionate about software development and UI/UX design. I am an open-minded, and an insightful lady who believes that every day is a learning day. I am currently taking up a Human-centered Design Course on Coursera to learn how to design technologies that enhance easy interaction with users. I aspire to build a platform where youths can interact with each other and psychologists for their mental health wellness. I enjoy brainstorming alongside other creative people. I am also a lover of life and I stand for three main values: Family, Freedom, and Authenticity.
